

CHORUS GIRL'S DOG HAS A DAY IN COURT

Miss May Had Left Quimbo in Charge of Bellboy and Both Disappeared.

FOUND IN CONNECTICUT

Taken Before Magistrate, Bevans Restores the Canine Pet to Its Owner.

A dog had his day in Centre Street Police Court today. While every dog has his day, it is not every dog that has his day in court—end in a police court. In that respect dogs are something like sleight-of-hand magicians.

Returning to the Centre Street Police Court dog, his name is Quimbo. He is a Boston terrier, with bat ears, and is worth $200 of anybody's money, but money would not buy him from Margaret May, his chorus girl owner.

Six weeks ago, when Miss May was stopping at the Plymouth Hotel in West Thirty-eighth street, she had to go on the road and left her dog with Thomas Bevans, a bell boy. The road tour was short, and upon her return to the city she went after Bevans and her dog.

Bevans was not to be found, and he had the dog. Miss May was almost crazy with grief. She invoked aid of the Central Office. This dog squad was assigned to the case, but could do nothing, thus giving proof that it is useless to set a dog to catch a dog or a dog thief.

Detective Le Gros did better than Commissioner Bingham's canine sleuths. He found Bevans and the dog at Bridgeport, Conn., and brought both back to New York. The appearance of Miss May and the dog in Centre Street Court was incidental to the arraignment of Bevans on a charge of grand larceny.

Magistrate Corrigan is a dog fancier. After a critical examination of Quimbo he said he had no hesitation in announcing that the animal is worth $200 and that Bevans could be sent up for five years for stealing him. Miss May was magnanimous, however, and asked that Bevans be set free because she and the dog back. Bevans said that if Miss May had only dropped him a postal card he would have returned the dog any time and he was discharged.

Not until it was too late did Miss May happen to think that she couldn't have sent Bevans a postal card because she didn't know where he was.

SIX COLLEGES PLAN BIG CLUBHOUSE

Brown, Wesley, Williams, Amherst, Dartmouth and Massachusetts Institute in Scheme.

Six New England colleges, Brown, Williams, Amherst, Dartmouth, Wesley and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, are planning a new clubhouse in the seven-story building at No. 48 West Fifty-fourth street.

An option has been given the representatives of the colleges by the owner, S. R. Guggenheim, and on Saturday night the clubs will have a smoker in the building so the members can examine it and consider plans for the purchase.

The plan is to pay $225,000 for the building and to alter it at the expense of $10,000, so that there shall be a cafe, billiard and card room on the two lower floors, six large club rooms, one for each of the colleges, and sixty bedrooms on the upper floors.

42D STREET CARS RUN ON OLD ROUTE

Will Not Come Down Broadway to Houston Street After Saturday.

An important change will be made in surface transportation on Saturday at midnight when all cars on the Forty-second street, Manhattanville and St. Nicholas Avenue Railway, which heretofore have run down Broadway to Houston street, will go through Forti-second street to First Avenue and thence to the Thirty-fourth street ferry.

This marks another chapter in the re-organization proceedings which are restoring subsidiary lines of the New York City Railway Company to their original condition.

The change will, it is said, cause much inconvenience to the public.

FLOWERS TO BLOOM FOR PACIFIC FLEET IN 'FRISCO.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 12.—With the scattering of seeds over the burnt hill along this week San Francisco will begin the first actual work for its beautification against the coming of the battle-ship fleet. At yesterday's meeting of the executive committee of the city's beautification committee it was decided to plant at once nasturtium, escholtzia and shirley poppy seeds so that when May comes the slopes now dotted with vacant spaces filled with brick and shales will be in gorgeous colors of many flowers.

No time is to be lost, for the plants take almost three months to flower, and whatever the seeds and their planting cost will be appropriated when the amount is known.

George Franklin, former juvenile champion, is confined to his home in the Bronx by a slight attack of pneumonia. During Franklin's absence as manager of the Columbia alley, on the Bowery, his place is being filled by Charles J. Kane, a well-known boxer.

The additional electro-vibratory treatment and special vapor inhaled, exercises and coughing bring under Dr. Anderson's method the most modern and complete treatment which has stood the test of a large and varied experience.

No time is wasted in experimenting or being treated for the wrong disease, and the thousands of cured patients throughout the entire country are living proof of Dr. Anderson's new and successful treatment. These facts are not the result of a few experiments with a dozen patients, but are the result of a score of cures every year as evidenced by a long specialist and nine years as the only expert X-Ray Specialist in New York City.
